PANEL VS HARDWOOD

The right material for the job.

Solid wood is beautiful — in the right room. But closets demand something different: shelves that hold weight without sagging, finishes that don't shift in color, panels that don't bow under decades of daily use. That's where our TFL panel outperforms.

INSPIRED CLOSETS • TFL PANEL

- Won't bow under load.
Engineered core holds heavy clothes across long shelf spans without sagging — the #1 failure point in solid wood closets.
- Denser than standard particleboard.
Northern hardwood chip core won't split, crack, warp, or bow over time.
- Stable in real-world conditions.
Doesn't expand, contract, or shift with humidity the way solid wood does.
- Consistent color, every panel.
19 decorative finishes that match across the entire system — no grain mismatches or seasonal color drift.
- Superior holding capacity for hardware.
Hinges, glides, and rod brackets stay tight for the life of the product.
- ¾" thermally-fused laminate.
The same construction process used in commercial-grade furniture — built for daily use.

VS

SOLID WOOD

- Bows under load.
Long shelves sag when loaded with clothes unless the wood is impractically thick.
- Expands, contracts, shifts.
Responds to humidity changes — drawers stick, doors misalign over time.
- Color shifts with sunlight.
Oxidizes and ages unevenly, especially on shelves and exposed faces.
- Grain inconsistency.
Matching tone and figure across a full closet system is difficult and often impossible.
- Heavy & harder to install.
Weight creates real installation challenges and stresses mounting hardware.
- Beautiful in the right context
— kitchens, trim, feature furniture. Just not always the right fit for closet performance.

The clear choice for your closet is our hardwood TFL panel
